

paalen consult is a German HR consultancy specialized in various engineering fields. Our clients are German engineering companies, often with an automotive background. The candidates we recruit come mostly from abroad, many of them from Romania, where we also have a representation. In our recruitment approach we use direct search, media advertisements and search in internal and external data bases. Our main goal is to achieve a tight match between the aspirations of our candidates and the needs of our clients. Only the satisfaction of both sides assures sustainable placings. Our services are free of charge for the candidates.

Currently we have the mandate to recruit several

EMC Test Engineers (m/f) and EMC Test Technicians (m/f)

Our client is an EMC test lab located in southwest Germany. The company belongs to a concern which is a well known automotive supplier. We deem this to be a very attractive combination for the future employees. The small company offers flexibility and space while the advantage of the big parent company behind it is access to the latest technology, security and ample development opportunities. The client provides services to the parent company and also acts independently in the market. The personnel need is owed to the strong growth and further ambitious expansion plans.

The EMC Test Engineers and EMC Test Technicians will effectuate EMC and EMD measurements of automotive, household and industrial devices. They will design, execute, evaluate and document the tests.

Successful candidates have a degree in Electronics/Mechatronics and experience in the field of measurement and control technology. You should have a good knowledge of the English and/or German language. Also you should be used to work with MS Office applications. We are looking for self-starting, quality conscious individuals, who are reliable team players.

You can expect to work in a stimulating environment using the latest technology. Our client offers unlimited work contracts with competitive remuneration at the standard local German level. The frame conditions include a 35-hour-week and 30 days of holidays. You will be helped with your relocation to Germany.
